THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

PRITCHARD MAKES A WEAK SPEECH

A Sprinkling of Negroes in the Hall—Some Rattling Parliamentary Proceedings—Douglas and Wood for the House, Starbuck for Senate—Pritchard Elicits Enthusiastic Cheers—G. Will Armfield the Presiding Angel.

The Republicans held a convention in Greensboro today which was attended by an influx of revenue and other Federal office holders and a goodly number of those who would like to hold office. Many of the old-line Republicans, who have been faithful for years, were conspicuous by their absence.

The forenoon was spent in caucusing and fixing up a slate. Some of the leaders held a conference with Senator Pritchard early in the day to arrange certain matters in connection with the campaign. The duly accredited delegates met in Bogart's Hall for a caucus and were in session until after 12 o'clock.

The court house was well filled when Chairman Armfield called the convention to order at 12:25 and read the official call. There were not more than 75 or 100 negroes in the crowd. Democrats composed a good portion of the audience, being drawn there through curiosity. The chair announced that each precinct was entitled to three votes.

Ed. L. Ragan was elected secretary and the chair appointed C. D. Cobbas his assistant.

The chairman appointed as a committee on credentials: C. D Cobb, M. H. Shiplett, John T. Walker, J. D. White and John G. Broadnax. Mr White declined to serve, as there was a contest in his precinct, and C. C. Causey was appointed in his stead.

At this stage of the game the proceedings lagged for several minutes, when the chair appointed J. A. Hoskins and O. A. Starbuck a committee of two to escort Senator Pritchard into the court house.

While waiting for the speaker the crowd amused itself as best it could, the leaders taking advantage of the opportunity to move around among the delegates and give final instructions.

When Jeter, with his escort of revenue officers came in, his admiring constituents gave a few yells of delight.

Judge W. P. Bynum, Jr., who introduced the speaker, congratulated the Republicans on their enthusiasm and threw a few bouquets at that "peerless American statesman, William McKinley," for having restored the country to a condition of unprecedented prosperity. A few digs were given the Democrats and what was termed "their barbarous election law," saying the liberty of the people was being threatened. Jeter was was referred to as "the champion of the rights of the common people of North Carolina."

Senator Pritchard opened his speech with a few assertions of patriotism and the grandeur of the Federal constitution, including the fifteenth amendment. Every man who loves his country and his God, said Jeter, should vote down any proposition that would prevent the colored man from voting. He asserted that the Democrats in North Carolina, soon after the Civil war, refused to avail themselves of an opportunity to take the right of suffrage from the negro by voting down the Howard amendment. The astonishing statement was made that the Democrats are responsible for the negro being allowed to vote.

The next proposition laid down was the old chestnut that there is no danger of negro suffrage in North Carolina. "We need the negroes here," said Jeter; "we need them on the farms and elsewhere, and cannot afford to lose them." In eulogistic terms he referrred to the unbounded patriotism of the negro and their conduct on the field of battle. "Isn't it proper that we should stand up and protect the rights and liberties of the black men, who have been exercising the right of freedom for 30 years?" asked the speaker. He read the "Enabling act" in an effort to prove that no State could adopt any law that would take away the right of suffrage from any man.

He next complimented the Democrats for always being able to take care of themselves, and said if any Democrat had not been able to participate in the ratification of the fifteenth amendment it was because "he had taken part in the late rebellion."

With great vehemence the speaker spoke of the so-called false statements and false promises made by the Democrats two years years ago in saying no Democratic Legislature would ever submit to the people any proposition to take away any man's right to vote. "Now, my friends," said Jeter, "I have shown you that in order to do this you have got to deliberately violate a solemn contract." This greatly pleased his colored hearers, who joined the white Republicans in loud applause.

The Senator next referred to the bugaboo of cutting down the representation in Congress if the amendment should be adopted. He assured his hearers that Congress would reduce North Carolina's representation in that event.

Considerable time was devoted to the provisions of the proposed amendment, the solemn assurance being given that section 5 is in open violation of the fifteenth amendment to the Federal constitution. Jeter referred with pride to his tilt in the Senate with Senator Morgan, and went away off to Vermont to cite ex-Senator Edmunds as authority for the assertion that the amendment is unconstitutional. Nor did he fail to quote his "distinguished colleague, Senator Butler."

Jeter prodded the last Legislature, to the great delight of his Republican hearers, saying that he had been informed that nine out of ten of the laws adopted, when passed upon by the Supreme Court, had been declared unconstitutional.

In substantiating his claim that the amendment would disfranchise white men, the speaker almost shed tears over the Germans and Irishmen so unfortunate as not to have been in this country prior to 1867.

A lame attempt was made to excite prejudice between classes, the Senator referring with seeming pleasure to the hard struggle of his youth. He expressed great concern for the poor people, since it was from their ranks that Lincoln and Grant came.

When he struck the Democratic election law, Jeter worked himself into a perfect frenzy, declaring it to be revolutionary and a prostitution of justice. When he referred indirectly to Federal bayonets and other means of force to prevent the Democrats from enforcing the law, his Republican auditors went into wild and prolonged applause.

It was solemnly asserted that, in South Carolina and Louisina, over 50 per cent. of the white voters had been disfranchised by the operation of constitutional amendments!

Senator Pritchard spoke for an hour and fifteen minutes, making a very good speech when it is remembered that the ani-amendment orator has practically no argument to stand on. He failed to raise a single issue that could not have been successfully met by any Democratic speaker in North Carolina.

When Senator Pritchard had concluded, the chairman adjourned the convention until 3 o'clock.

When the convention had been called to order Chairman Armfield announced that the credential committee had found all precincts represented except North and South Madison, and only one contest—in precinct No. 3, North Gilmer township. The committee reported in favor of seating J. D. White, W. J. Jones and Price Easley. The report was adopted.

Without effecting a permanent organization, the convention was declared ready for nominations. After O. A. Starbuck had been nominated for the State Senate, W. P. Ragan arose and asked that an organization be effected. The temporary organization was then made permanent. There being no other nomination for Senator, Mr. Starbuck was nominated by acclamation.

M. C. Holton, J. R. Wood, R. D. Douglas, W. P. Ragan and B. C. Chilcutt were placed in nomination for the House of Representatives. After some squabble as to the manner in which the ballot should be taken, the roll call of townships was proceeded with. The will of the bosses was carried out, Messrs. Douglas and Wood being nominated on the first ballot.

J. C. Meekins, Jr., placed the name

BURNED LIKE RATS

HORRIBLE CALAMITY SATURDAY

NEARLY 400 BURNED AND DROWNED

Fire Broke Out in Hoboken Saturday Afternoon and the Dead and Dying Are Not Yet All Found—Three Great Ocean Liners Were Burned to the Waters Edge. Men Imprisoned Between the Decks of the Burning Ships Were Bereft of Reason--Insane Men Cry for Home and Friends--A Priest Absolves a Crew Just as They Sink--The Narrow Escape of the Wilhelm der Grosse.

By Wire to the Telegram.

New York, July 2—The most disastrous fire that has for many years visited this country, broke out among the shipping on the docks at Hoboken, New Jersey, at four o'clock Saturday afternoon. From its results so far it is believed that 326 people are dead, 58 missing, and 109 injured. More divers and grapplers were put to work this morning on the wrecks of the Saale, the Main, and the Bremen, the three liners wholly destroyed. The whole scene was one of disaster, misery and suffering.

ACCOUNT SUNDAY, BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, June 30.—Almost $10,000,000 worth of property was destroyed, many lives were lost, many persons were injured and at least 1,500 lives were imperiled by fire that started among cotton bales stored on pier No. 3, of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company, in Hoboken, N. J, about 4 o'clock this afternoon. In less than 16 minutes the flames covered an area a quarter of a mile long, extending outward from the actual shore line to the bulkheads 600 to 1,000 feet away, and had caught four great ocean liners and a dozen or more smaller harbor craft in its grasp. Stories in regard to loss of life are conflicting, the number being variously estimated at from 50 to 200. Up to midnight 10 bodies had been recovered, but they were all so burned and blackened that identification was impossible. The hospitals in New York, Hoboken and Jersey City are crowded with the injured and men are being brought in by scores. Those who gathered along the shores of the Hudson river to witness the great conflagration saw a spectacle that they never can forget and one that will always have a conspicuous place in the history of New York. River and bay were enveloped in a pall of black smoke through which angry flames, bursting as from volcanoes on the Jersey shore and in the water itself, leaping like red spheres into the sky. The surface of the water was covered with floating and blazing masses of freight thrown from burning vessels. And through the pall of smoke a great crimson sun, enlarged to twice its size by the haze, glared like an enormous eye as it slowly sank in the west. Such was the tremendous spectacle presented on the surface of the Hudson river, as if it had been some holiday pageant. It was made tragic by the realization that somewhere in the smoke, somewhere beneath the turbid waters, scores of lives had been lost, or were then in their last desperate struggles against death. This spectacle was witnessed by thousands and thousands and thousands from both shores and by other thousands who crowded upon every ferry boat, every excursion boat, upon every variety of river craft that could be secured for the purpose. The crowd upon the banks of the river was almost as great as was formed to witness the triumphal return of Admiral Dewey. Looking up the river towards the burning ships and piers, the scene was a wonderful and tragic one of grandeur.

The steamship Saale had been turned into the river until it was just off Fort Liberty, where she had been gathering about her a ring of fire boats and tugs, all fighting to save at least the hull of the doomed steamer. At varying distances about the burning ship lay coal and cotton barges, all ablaze, with each one or more tugs playing streams of water upon it. Some of these barges and lighters were loaded with very inflammable stuff, and the flames leaped

TO PREVENT NEW YORK MUST UNITE

One of two Propositions Must Prevail, New York Must Unite on a Suitable Man Or Towne Will be the Man—The Platform has Been Written and Declare for 16 to 1, and Against Expansion and Imperialism.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Kansas City, July 2.—The political situation so settled this morning as to fix positive lines. The platform to be adopted by the convention, has been written and approved by Bryan. It will be brought here by Metcalf, of Omaha. The opening plank of the platform, declares against imperialism, expansion and holding the conquered territory, and says the Republic of our fathers must be preserved. Then comes the declaration for free coinage at 16 to 1, so clear and explicit as it cannot be misunderstood. The opening plank pledges the Democratic party to restore the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the present legal ratio.

The vice presidential question has narrowed down to two propsitions: If New York will unite upon a man who supported Bryan and the Chicago platform in 1896, that man can be nominated; if they cannot thus unite, all the surface indications are that Towne will be the nominee.

Graham, Oxford; S M Gattis, Hillsboro; W. C. Dowd, Charlotte; J. A. Brown, Chadbourn; J. R. Blair, Troy; A. D. Watts, Statesville; A. C. Avery, Morganton; G. W. Flower, Taylorsville; R. P Walker, Asheville; S. Gallert, Rutherfordton.

The alternates are: Thomas W. Blount, Roper; W. H. Bray, Currituck; R. H. Stancill, Margarettsville; H. G. Williams, Wilson; John Underwood, Fayetteville, T. E. Gilman, Jacksonville; T. J. Lassiter, Smithfield; W. S. Parker, Henderson; C. B. McAnally, Madison; J. A. Long, Graham; J. G. Covington, Monroe; J. F. L. Armfield; Maxton; J. D. Elliott, Newton; W. H. Williams, Yadkinsville; W. L. Hardin, Morganton; J. W. Watts, Taylorsville; J. J. Redman, Marshall; A. Cannon, Mills River; Theo. F. Kluttz, Salisbury; W. S. Chadwick, Beaufort; B. F. Aycock, Fremont; J. G. Hackett, Wilkesboro. Two of the delegates, Lyon and Graham, were unable to go. The party will reach Kansas City tomorrow morning.

North Carolina is in great luck this year, so far as the farmers are concerned; with the best and biggest wheat crop ever grown in the State, and with the cotton crop simply magnificent, while to the southward a great deal of it has suffered irreparable injury.

A farmer of my acquaintance, who has many tenants, told them to use four times as much fertilizer on their cotton as before and that he would guarantee them 7½ cents a pound. They followed his advice and will make a bale or more to the acre, at a cost of about 4 cents a pound.

The corporation commission Saturday completed its assessment work. It now certainly has full power. However, since the Supreme Court decided the Abbotts case that was no longer a point. The commission sticks to the $10,000,000 increase of the valuation of the three great railway systems, Southern, Atlantic Coast Line and Seaboard Air Line, which it made last year. The grand total is $44,350,000 which is about a half a million greater than the 1899 assessment, which aggregated $43,770,000. The Atlantic Coast Line is assessed at $13,809,643, the Southern at $15,270,853, the Seaboard Air Line at $8,841,619. These figures are the same as last year's. They are the figures against which those great systems have now suits in the Federal Courts.

There are no changes in the assessment of the miscellaneous roads, except a slight increase in the valuation of rolling stock and station property. This difference will hardly be $100,000.

Some additional roads, built during the twelvemonth, are now assessed, these being the Carolina Northern, 9 miles; Lawndale, 9 miles, and East Carolina, 8 miles, $1,500 a mile; the Mt. Airy and Eastern, 5 miles, and Linville River, 12 miles, $1,000, and the Richmond, Petersburg and Carolina, 7½ miles in North Carolina, $1,500 a mile.

The total mileage is 3,638, an increase of 64 over the previous twelvemonth. The commission assessed for the first time the dozen or more refrigirator car companies which operate in this State. The total assessment of these approximates $200,000. July 18th the railroads will be given a hearing upon the assessment.

The Western Union Telegraph Company is assessed at a million. At this figure it was assessed last year, and about it it, too, is making a fight. The Postal is assessed at $50,000, and all miscellaneous companies also at last year's figures. Such is the case with the Pullman Company also, the assessment of which is $150,000.

The Populist State Secretary, R. B. Davis, says the committee will use the argument of the pamphlet this year. Senator Butler is about at the end of his row in North Carolina and knows it. The fight to get an anti-Democratic majority in the Legislature which he is making in conjunction with his Republican allies is really a fight for self, but it would be a singular thing indeed to see a "Pritchard Republican" (and are they not all "Pritchard Republicans?") can again vote for Butler who in 1897 tried to destroy Pritchard.

The Republicans like the Populists, know that they too are loosing ground daily. The real heart of the campaign is but now begun, in fact it runs apace with the weather.

The statue of Vance is expected to arrive here next Wednesday. An expert accompanies it, to put it in place. Then it will be swarthed in canvass for nearly two months—that is until the unveiling, August 22 The granite upon which the statue is to stand is of admirable color and workmanship, and the mound is grand and attractive.

This will be a lively week in baseball circles here. The number of local cranks, is very large. Baseball is in fact the fad of the day.

Reports show that over fifteen hundred lives have been saved through the use of One Minute Cough Cure. Most of these were cases of grippe, croup, asthma, whooping cough, bronchitis and pneumonia. Its early use prevents consumption. Howard Gardner. tf.

At their last meeting the Jr. O. U. A. M. here elected the following officers for the ensuing term: Councilor, Rev. J. W. Goodman; vice-councilor, John Scroggs; recording secretary, D. C. Aldridge; assistant recording secretary, John W. Johnson; Chaplain, W. C. Herndon; financial secretary, J. W. Sechrest; conductor, H. K. Campbell; Warden, S.M. Johnson; inside sentinel, J. E. Jones; treaurer, V. A. Idol; trustee, J. W. Goodman.

Senator J. C. Pritchard spoke here Saturday night in the opera house. He was introduced by W. P. Ragan, Esq., in an appropriate speech. He began by mentioning his visit to this State four years ago to hear a discussion between two nominees for Congress. Then he said, that the country was in a state of wreck and ruin, but today under Republican rule it was greatly improved. In regard to the proposed amendment to the constitution he said that the people could not afford to adopt the measure. That it was only aimed at the colored man. That the Democrats were responsible for negro suffrage. "The negro" said the speaker "is just as capable of voting as the half breeds in Cuba and the Philippine Islands." He assured his audience that the amendment would be defeated—"that the west was solidly against the measure and that the Democrats couldn't steal enough votes in the east to carry the election." Then he made the astonishing remark that hundreds of Democrats were joining their ranks to fight the measure. That Democrats had a way of their own that was noted for its stubornness and short-sightedness. That by his actions he scored the Legislature into changing the date of paying poll tax from March to May. That it was claimed of the representatives in the Legislature that they were the finest looking and most intelligent body of men ever assembled, but they had made more mistakes than any three sessions since the war. "If the amendment is passed," said Mr. Pritchard, "it will shove the poor white man off with the negro." He expressed great pity for the poor white man—that the Republicans were his friends and defense. "If the negro would vote with the Democrats he wouldn't smell bad and he would be altogether lovely," said the speaker. "A man in the western part of the State made the remark that he would vote for the amendment if Mr. Aycock would make affidavit that it wouldn't disfranchise any white man. This Mr. Aycock did. "How about the foreigners?" said thespeaker, "Won't they be disfranchised?" But Mr. Pritchard took particular pains not to say "native born white man," as Mr. Aycock said in his affidavit. His talk was interspersed with jokes that made a part of the audience laugh. In closing he said that he was glad to see the good feeling existing between labor and capital. That four years ago the working man had a bad countenance, a dirty shirt and wore Cleveland badges. Today things are different, all is sunshine. Part of the audience rose from their seemingly slumber when he announced McKinley and the great war man—Roosevelt—at the head of the National ticket. Mr. Pritchard had in his possession a Democratic handbook of 1898, from which he frequently quoted and made remarks. The High Point Band furnished music before the speaking.

is now complete. All the latest and newest machines have been added that money could buy and the plant is now unsurpassed by any in the state. The Public, and especially the ladies, is cordially invited to call at any time and view the plant. We believe they would find it interesting to see the rapidity with which our new machines turn out work. A tablecloth, sheet or counterpane is ironed in thirty seconds or a dozen smaller articles in the same length of time. Collars and cuffs are ironed at one passage through the rollers of our Domestic machine. We also have a machine especially for ironing ladies' shirt waists. To mention in detail all of our machines would require too much space; a personal inspection is necessary to take it in. We run three delivery wagons for the accommodation of our patrons. MONDAY, JULY 2, 1900.

The terrible fire in New York harbor Saturday afternoon was about the most appalling thing that has happened in a long time. The killing of a thousand men in battle is not so distressing as the death of fifty in a railroad accident such as occurred in Georgia last week. But this is not near as bad as dying in a mine or in a fire like that of Saturday. What could be more distressing than to know that men are cooped up in the hold of a ship that is on fire above, with no chance to escape? In battle there is a chance and men's own bravery count for something. But here it is different.

That politics makes strange bedfellows is a saying as true as it is trite. But politics does more than this. It almost makes over human nature. We can see how Senator Pritchard, for instance, can associate with Senator Butler in an official way, so to speak, for the sake of sustaining their peculiar political relations. But how he can tolerate him personally and associate with him when it is unnecessary, is incomprehensible, after the traitorous way in which he sought to defeat Pritchard.

Congressman Kelly, of South Dakota, whom the Republicans call a "Democrat-Populist," arrived in North Carolina yesterday under the pilotage of Marion Butler, to help the Republicans. These Western Democrat - Populist - Republican - Socialist birds are hoppers. No man who is not fool or fraud would be declaiming against the Republican administration while in the west and then come to North Carolina to help it along.

The two alternates which our dispatch this afternoon says exists at Kansas City regarding the vice-presidential nomination are rather narrow for the purposes of anything like the olive branch business; still, it is to be hoped that between the two it may be the New York man.

How Republicans who value their reputation as truthful men can, even in speeches, say that Democrats are flocking over to them on the amendment question, when everybody knows that this is not the case, is hard to understand.

Senator Pritchard gratuitously adds insult to attempted injury. Not satisfied at making speeches against the white people and the cause they hold dear, he goes out of the way to insult them by calling our war a rebellion.

Senator Pritchard got a littled tangled on building roads "for you and I," but he came out alright on San "Whan" hill.

He Was Attracted by Greensboro's Progressive Spirit.

Attracted by the progressive spirit of Greensboro and the unrivalled advantages offered by this city, Dr. J. S. Betts, late of Fayetteville, has located here for the practice of dentistry. Dr. Betts is a most congenial gentleman, and stands high in the ranks of his profession. For the past five years he has resided in Fayetteville, where he enjoyed the highest esteem of all the citizens of that place. Of his departure the Fayetteville Observer says:

"Dr. J. S. Betts left today for Greensboro, where he will in future practice his profession. We part with our young friend with reluctance, but wish him the unbounded success he deserves at the hands of the good people of Greensboro."

THE BATTLE GROUND'S FRIEND.

William E. Bevill, Esq., Director of Battle Ground Company, County Commissioner and Deacon---The Southern---All Are Going Out the 4th.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

Do you think, Mr. Editor, that a community always fully appreciates the disinterested efforts of individuals in its midst and their labors freely rendered in the community's behalf? I fear not. For a number of years our friend above named has laboriously, unselfishly and uncomplainingly borne burdens imposed by both church and state. There is such a thing you know as "driving a free horse to death."

Mr. Bevill is the standby of the directorate for both soliciting and collecting subscriptions for the Battle Ground. Deal with his approach gently, my reader-friend, as you certainly ought.

But speaking of free horses, Mr. Editor, "reminds me." Not a great while ago four and six-horse teams used to be common in this section. The "off horse" behind or "wheel-horse" occupied no enviable position. He was close up to the load and immediately under the driver's whip-hand. "Gee-haw" as the driver might curse, jerk his lines, pop his whip and swing the leaders round—the leaders were at least out of the reach of the lash. But alas! this fell upon the wheel-horse with distressing convenience; and free horse or no free horse, whenever the wheel dropped into a rut there was straining ahead of him.

I think it will be admitted that the solicitor and collector of subscriptions is a wheel-horse and has the short end of the double-tree at that. The community is greatly indebted to Mr. Bevill and his fellows of the Battle Ground directorate cheerfully render their acknowledgements as all others doubtless do.

This town ought to stir its stumps on next Wednesday, the 4th.

Every man and woman ought to feel under personal obligation to put his or her "shoulder to the wheel." There will be a number of business, influential and elegant people here for their first time, and the city ought to impress them favorably if possible. Meet these strangers at the hotels. Lend your presence at the Battle Ground, which the late rains have rendered delightful as well as beautiful. Judge Schenck has done his whole duty out there. The managers of the Southern Railroad has dealt with us as cordially and liberally as the lamented Gray and Capt. Fry used to do under "Our Road"—the old C. F. & Y. V. Thus the Southern is still "Our Road." I am glad to know its appointments for the Fourth are convenient and abundant, and their fare is entirely reasonable. Now, my friend and reader, if you have no horse and buggy and find it inconvenient to pay the small railroad fare, walk out this time, and by the next Fourth some of our enterprising individuals or business associations will take you out on a "trolley," on the roadbed already graded.

Let us all pull together on the Fourth—all pull by the "collar" and none by the breeching.

Yours truly,
J. M. M.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

of Carl Wheeler before the convention for the nomination for sheriff, speaking of him as a life-long Republican. W. B. Steele was nominated by Dr. D. A. Stanton, of High Point. A squabble arose over the first ballot, in which Mr. Wheeler received a majority of votes. Mr. Steele was willing to abide by the result, but Mr. Wheeler asked for another roll call. The second ballot resulted in Wheeler receiving 44½ votes and Mr. Steele 38½. On motion of Mr. Steele the nomination was made unanimous.

W. B. Steele demanded that western Guilford be given a place on the ticket and nominated Dr. D. A. Stanton, of High Point, for county treasurer. He moved that the nomination be made by acclamation, and the motion was about to be put, when W. F. Clarida arose and put F. K. Trogdon in nomination. 'Squire Keith arose and said the house was ready to vote for Stanton and no one had any right to place anyone else in nomination. W. B. Banman, of Deep River, was also nominated. A delegate moved that the rules be suspended and Dr. Stanton nominated by acclamation. While the chairman, secretary and several others were caucusing there were loud calls for a roll call. Just as the roll was about to be called, Mr. Trogdon was re-nominated, after his name had been withdrawn. On the first ballot Dr. Stanton received 56½ votes and was declared the nominee. Messrs. Bowman and Trogdon received 16½ and 8 votes, respectively.

For register of deeds A. B. Horney, of High Point, was nominated by M. C. Holton, who made a short speech in impressing the claims of western Guilford on the convention. Messrs. R. Eugene Hodgin and Arthur H. Stack, of Greensboro, were also placed in nomination. Mr. Hodgin was nominated on the first ballot, receiving 46½ votes. Messrs. Horney and Stack received 18 and 16½ votes respectively.

The names of L. E. Osborne, F. A. Pierce, of this city, and Joseph S. Worth, of High Point, were placed before the convention for the nomination for county surveyor. The names of Messrs. Osborne and Worth were withdrawn, Mr Pierce being nominated by acclamation.

In the roll call for coroner on township cast its vote for Dr. Turner, the Democratic incumbent. Dr J. J. Hilton, of Hilsdale, was nominated.

Henry Cobb, N. R. Wood. B. H. Hodson, E. A. Snow, John A. Hodgin, T. C. Starbuck and B. G. Chilcutt were placed before the convention for nomination for county commissioners. Messrs. Hodgin, Wood and Starbuck were nominated is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. Your children will be glad to build at double the price it now costs you. It is a trite, but true saying, if you want to build, "Now is the time."

THOUGHTS ON THE CONVENTION.

A MOST REMARKABLE GATHERING.

Guilford Democrats Did a Splendid Day's Work Saturday--The Fine Spirit Pervading the Convention--The Strong Ticket Put Out--Prof. Joyner as a Presiding Officer — Endorsement of Congressman Kitchin--The Oldest Man in the Convention.

The Democratic county convention Saturday was a remarkable gathering in many respects—remarkable in size, spirit and unanimity. It would be impossible to get together a more representative body of the citizens of Guilford county. The apparent and expressed desire of the members of the convention to do only that which would result in good to the party showed that the true spirit of Democracy prevailed. And while there were those who held widely different views on a local matter that has caused division, the voice of the convention was accepted without reservation and made the unanimous expression of the assembled Democracy of the county. Those whose views were not adopted bowed to the will of the majority, and the party came out of the convention as firmly united as it has ever been.

* * * *

The ticket nominated is conceded to be one of the finest ever put out by any convention. Each nominee is a strong man, and together they form an invincible aggregation. Clean, honest and courageous champions of Democracy, the nominees will reflect honor upon the county and the party whose servants they are. The fact that several of them were chosen over some of the best and most popular men in the county is a compliment to the successful candidates.

* * * *

While the contests over some of the nominations were keen and spirited, no undue advantage was taken nor unfair method used. The unsuccessful candidates accepted defeat in a spirit of loyalty to the party, each pledging his united support to the entire ticket. The speech of Mr. J. W. Forbis in withdrawing from the race for the Senatorial nomination expressed the sentiment of all the other candidates. He thanked the convention for the vote given him, saying he esteemed it a greater honor than to be elected Governor of North Carolina on the Republican ticket.

* * * *

Another noticeable feature of the convention was the brevity of the nominating speeches. In most instances those making the nominations contented themselves with simply placing the names of their favorites before the convention. The gentlemen mentioned for the various nominations were all so well and favorably known that lengthy eulogies were unnecessary.

* * * *

The convention was particularly fortunate in the selection of its permanent chairman. The arduous duties of this responsible position were performed by Prof. J. Y. Joyner in a manner to command the admiration and gratitude of all. He presided with an ease and grace that marked him as a splendid parliamentarian, while his uniform courtesy and unruffled temper won for him the thanks of every Democrat in the house. His speech in taking the chair was a gem, and many expressions of praise were heard concerning it.

The following resolution concerning our Congressman was introduced by Mr. John N. Wilson and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the course of Hon. W. W. Kitchin, our representative in Congress from this district, be and the same is hereby endorsed, and that the delegates to the Democratic Congressional convention be instructed to vote for his renomination.

No regular delegates were elected to the Congressional convention, which meets in Durham on Tuesday, the 10th. The good old Democratic plan was adhered to, every Democrat in good standing who shall attend from this county being declared a delegate.

Probably the oldest man in the convention, both in point of years and service to the party, was Mr. R. S. Stewart, of Jefferson township. He is over 80 years old and is proud of the fact that that he has voted a Democratic ticket on every opportunity that has presented itself, having never scratched a name. He was in the Banner Warehouse when the convention was called to order at 11:30 and remained until it adjourned at 5.30. During these six hours he was an interested participant in all the deliberations.

BURNED LIKE RATS.

high in the air, while the heat was so terrific that it was not possible to use effectively the small hose of the tug. So, one by one, these altars of fire slowly consumed, most of them burning down to the water's edge. Along the Jersey shore small fires were blazing, started by the wreckage of the fire from the big steamships. Over on this side of the river the fire caused the greatest excitement, and the drifting steamships and barges floated, all aflame, to the New York shore, and brushed against the piers from Canal to Murray street. The fire department was called out at various points along the threatened section and the spectacle was presented of the firemen on the shore trying to fight fires at every minute changing their situation. For hours the river was crowded with small boats hastening to the scene of disaster, or already taking part in the rescue of the hundreds who had leaped into the river when seized by the terror of the flames. These boats were paddled here and there, but soon their occupants had nothing to do but to watch the mad sweep of the flames. Those who had plunged into the water had been rescued, or had gone to the bottom. There were hundreds of men and a few women on each of the destroyed steamships. Crowds of dock laborers, and also employes of the companies, were on all the piers. Men, women and children were on the canal boats and men on the barges and lighters, and when the fire made its quick descent upon them escape was cut off before they realized their awful position. The people on the piers jumped into the water to save themselves and scores of them huddled under the piers, clinging to the supports, only to be suffocated by the flames or to drop back into the water from exhaustion. Men working in the holds of the four steamships were shut in by walls of flame and it was impossible to reach them. It probably never will be known how many perished in the ships, as the flames would leave but few if any remnants of the human body.

The greatest loss of life appears to have been on the Saale. She carried 450 people, and was to have sailed for Boston this afternoon. When the police boat captain went out with his rescuing party he saw bodies lying all around the dock. The steamship Bremen carried a crew of 300 men, and the Main 250, and if as many lives were lost as on the Saale the number of dead will be very great.

The burning or smouldering remains of canal boats, lighters and barges are scattered all the way down the river and bay to Staten Island and Governor's Island. Each of these craft will add something to the list of dead.

The loss to the North German Lloyd docks alone is placed at $2,000,000. The value of the great quantities of cotton, oil and various other merchandise on the docks has not been estimated at this time. The loss to the North Lloyd Steamship Company alone will probably come close to the $10,000,000 mark, as the Bremen, the Main and the Saale were almost totally destroyed. The Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse was somewhat damaged. The fire store houses of the Campbell Company were greatly damaged, the loss on buildings alone being placed at $1,500,000. The value of the Hamberg-American Line steamship Phoenica is not known, but this will swell the amount of damage. The Thingvalia pier was damaged and burned and the docks of the Hamberg-American Line suffered greatly. A number of small buildings in Hoboken, on one of the wharves, were destroyed, with their contents, but no idea of the value of these can be obtained. The amount of insurance cannot be learned.

Up to 2 o'clock this (Sunday) morning 25 bodies had been recovered.

It is feared that the loss of life in the holds of the vessels was frightful, and it is said that many of the crews who were asleep at the time were imprisoned there. The worst tale will come from the steamer Main, which could not be towed from the pier.

On the Bremen, as she blazed out in midstream, six men could be seen with their heads out of port holes, waving handkerchiefs for assistance. Tug boats and small boats darted around the big steamship, making efforts to save the men, but the terrible heat from the flames kept them away.

The steamer Saale drifted down to the Battery about 6:30 o'clock. She was ablaze and her crew was on deck. Captain Smith, of the police boat, put his men in a tug and ran to the burning ship. When the tug reached the Saale 37 of the latter's crew were taken off. Most of them were conscious. Some suffered from smoke inhaled. The injured men were taken to hospitals. All appear to be foreigners. None could speak English, and not even their names were learned at the pier.

The harbor police said the officials of the steamship company feared the loss of the Bremen's chief engineer and six of his assistants, who were in their quarters forward at the time the fire broke out. They thought the loss of life had been greatest on the Saale. They placed the number at from 30 to 50, and said the majority of the victims were firemen and coal passers. The fire boat New Yorker devoted her attention and took off more than 30 members of her crew. As she steamed by the Saale there happened on the doomed ship a terrific explosion. Flames shot up 40 feet and it seemed as if the whole upper part of the ship had been torn away. The Saale was known to have had a large quantity of kereosene and other oils aboard and this is what probably exploded.

A member of the crew of the fire boat Van Wyck said: "The fire made it impossible to get to the steerage of the Saale. We tried next to get the people through the port holes. There seemed to be forty or fifty of them. There were men, women and children. One woman in particular attracted our attention. She kept calling to others not to give up hope, that we would save them. Just before the ship went down a tug drew alongside with a Roman Catholic priest aboard. He called to the people, who seemed to be mostly of his faith, and with uplifted hands imparted absolution to them just before the ship sank, and water rushing in at the port holes, drowned them like rats.

"During the time the steamship Main lay at the burning docks with the flames playing all about her, 16 men lived on board her. When she was hauled out from between the burning docks at 11 o'clock tonight these men were still alive."

CURRENT MISCELLANY.

Curiosities and Vagaries of Chinese Logic.

If a railway was proposed and it was shown a Chinese mandarin that it might earn £500,000 per year, he would immediately exclaim that you proposed to rob China of half a million per annum. You might point out that there was no robbery about it; that people need not use the railway unless they liked and could, if they preferred, travel or send their goods by boat in the old way. "That is just what I say," the mandarin would reply. "You are robbing the boatmen." You might next point out that a large proportion of the earnings would be paid in wages, and was, perhaps your most effective argument; but even here the mandarin would assert that you were taking your employes from agriculture, which was, he would claim, much better for the nation. As for the money paid for materials imported, that, the mandarin would hold was lost to the country. You might point out that the money need not necessarily leave the country, being paid into a bank and being finally exported in the shape of silks, tea, etc. but the mandarin would reply: "That is just what I say. You steal the money in the first place, and then use it to buy silks and tea, which had much better stay in this country." Finally, you would try to get round him in another way. The mandarins holding the most important positions, necessarily involving heavy expenditure, are paid the most inadequate salaries, say, £150 per annum. A mandarin must therefore, take fees; he does not call them bribes, or consider them so. You set to work to make the desired arrangement in the best way you can, and the mandarin does the best he can for himself. As a foreigner, you are considered a rich man and thus fair game. The mandarin, if honest and patriotic, wants to do the best he can for his country, but interprets this inversely, namely, by making things as bad as possible for the other side. He cannot believe that a bargain may be profitable to both parties. In fact, the more honest the mandarin the more difficult it is to transact business.—Engineering.
